

HIGH NINES

Get Together at Victoria Mines
Two Miles From This Place
Saturday Morning.—
Two Men Injured
AND FIREMAN STERETT KILLED.

Two freight trains pulled by the largest engines on the L. & N. system came together in a head-on collision at Victoria mines, near this place Saturday morning. Clarence Sterett of Nashville, was buried under his engine and instantly killed, one leg was completely severed from his body and in several hours before the missing limb could be found. Engineer Tom Giannini

ENGINEERS WHO WERE IN THE WRECK.

TOM GIANNINI.
Engineer on No. 80, Knaped with Shaken and a Few Bruises, from Cab Where Death Seemed Certain.

ELMO SHAVER.
Engineer of Coal Train, which was Barely Moving when Struck. Received Warnings in Time to Jump.

who was pulled 2nd 80 had a narrow escape. He was also caught under the overturned engine and considerably bruised, but succeeded in releasing himself with the assistance of one of the train men. Brakeman Harry Brown, who was sitting in the fireman's seat on No. 80, was caught under the engine and his foot considerably mashed and bruised. Both he and Engineer Giannini were brought to the St. Bernard hospital at this place as soon as possible and the L. & N.'s local surgeon, Dr. A. O. Sisk, dressed their wounds. Mr. Giannini was able to go to his home in Nashville on the 31st afternoon. Harry Brown was removed to his residence in this city on the following day. Both are progressing nicely.

The Cause of the Wreck.

The coal train in charge of Conductor Yount and Engineer Elmo Shaver was at Victoria mines doing their work. They were pulling down the loads to place empties for loading and had passed the switch with several loads moving slowly when 2nd 80 with a time order on southbound passenger train No. 53 was trying to make Madisonville came in sight. It was a foggy morning and the coal train was working on the main track without a flag and consequently with no protection. 2nd 80 was going about 35 miles per hour when they struck. The two huge monsters of steel and iron crashed together with terrific force, reared on end and fell side by side a useless mass of twisted wreckage.

Engineer Thomas Giannini, Fireman Clarence Sterett and Flagman Harry Brown, who was in the fireman's seat at the time, were buried under the engine. Engineer Giannini managed to catch an iron bar and pull himself up high enough to prevent being strangled or drowned by the water flowing from the tender of his engine until help arrived. As soon as he was released he and Mr. John Carroll, foreman of Victoria mines, (who had hastened to the scene of trouble), released Harry Brown, who was held by the foot and who would have perished by fire from the burning wreckage had not Mr. Carroll and men secured buckets and extinguished it. No one was hurt on the coal train as they were barely moving and all had time to get in clear before 80 struck them. As soon as the intelligence reached the Earlinton office night Chief Dispatcher Griffin ordered the Earlinton and Howell wreckers out.

When the wreckers arrived on the scene they at once went to work to clear the track but things were in such bad shape and wreckage was piled so high it was thought best by those in charge to transfer No. 53 southbound and No. 92 northbound. This was accomplished with the usual amount of trouble and delay. After the passenger trains had been gotten out of the way a track was built around the wreck and trains were moved in this manner until the track was cleared the following Tuesday. This was one of the worst wrecks that has happened on this division in several years and the hardest to handle.

Two of the company's largest size engines costing $10,000 each were stripped and ruined. Six cars demolished.

Traffic was delayed several hours and five men lost positions they have worked hard to obtain and harder to hold, all because Flagman R. K. Smith did not do his duty. In other states such work as this would be termed criminal negligence and the strong arm of the law would be invoked.

TOGO'S POWERFUL GUNS

Annihilate Russian Fleet—Twenty-Two Ships
Captured or Sunk by Japanese Fleet.

ATTACKING SQUADRON NOT DAMAGED.
ROJESTVENSKY'S FATE STILL IN DOUBT.

Washington, May 29.—The following official report from Tokyo was received at the Japanese legation to-day:

Tokio, May 29.—Reports received from Admiral Togo at the Japanese headquarters:

First report received morning of May 27. Immediately upon the receipt of that Russian squadron started for attack. Weather is fine to-day, but with heavy seas.

Second report received night of May 27. Combined squadron attacked Russian squadron to-day near Okinoshima (southeast of Tushima) and defeated it, sinking at least four ships and inflicting heavy damage upon others. Damage to our ships is insignificant. Our destroyers and torpedo flotillas delivered an attack after sunset.

Third report received Monday, May 29. Main force of our combined squadron continued pursuit since the 27th and attacked 28th near Liancourt Rocks (northeast of Okinoshima), a group consisting of Nicolai I. (battleship), Orel (battleship), Semyavin, Apresin and Izumrud. Izumrud fled, while remaining four vessels surrendered. No damage to our ships. According to statements of prisoners, vessels sunk in engagement May 27 were Borodino (battleship), Alexandra III. (battleship), Zemtchug and five other ships. Rear Admiral Nebogoff and about 2,000 other Russians were taken prisoners.

The following are the damages suffered by the enemy, in addition to those given above, since the commencement of the battle, as reported by commanders not under immediate command of Togo and by observation stations.

SUNK—Admiral Nachimoff, Domitri Donskoi, Svetlana, Admiral Usakoff, Kamchatka, Irutshush and three destroyers. CAPTURED—Vladimir Monomach, foundered after capture. Two special service ships, name unknown, and one destroyer.

Russian losses definitely known so far may be classified as follows: Six battleships, one coast defense ship, five cruisers, two special ships, three destroyers, were sunk; two battleships, two coast defense ships, one special service ship, one destroyer, were captured.

It is not yet clear whether three vessels stated by prisoners to have been sunk are included or not in the above list. There are more than 1,000 prisoners, besides the 2,000 taken by the main force of the combined squadron.

The naval engagement is still in progress, so that it will take some time before the final results can be known.

Togo's Fleet Not Damaged.

Washington, May 29.—An official telegram from Tokyo states that Admiral Togo reports to his government the total losses sustained by the Russian fleet Saturday and Sunday were:

Two battleships, one coast defense armorclad, five cruisers, two special service ships, three destroyers—all sunk. In addition, there were captured two battleships, two coast defense armorclads, one special service ship, one destroyer and over 2,000 prisoners.

Admiral Togo adds that the Japanese squadron was undamaged.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

Naval Officers Figure Out the Strategy Employed by Togo.

St. Petersburg, May 30.—Whatever other information was contained in Capt. Chagin's telegram to the Emperor was withheld and no details are known except those contained in the foreign dispatches, from which the naval officers have been able to reconstruct a fair idea of the long and bloody sea fight.

The figure that Admiral Togo, with his main squadron, must have lain somewhere off the coast of Korea, while Admirals Kamimura and Uriu held their squadrons further north to head off the Russian vessels which might get through to bar the entrance to the Straits of Tangu, in case the Russians should be reported moving up the east-coast of Japan.

When Togo's scouts reported that Admiral Rojestyensky was heading for the eastern channel of the Straits of Korea the Japanese Admiral steamed around the north part of Tsu island and came upon the Russians steaming in double column with the cruisers to the port. Togo enjoyed the great advantage of tactical position when he opened fire, having the highest of the Russian ships between him and Rojestyensky's heavier vessels, thus smothering the fire of the latter. Besides Togo was able to use all his broadsides, whereas the sternmost ships of the Russian column coming on in line ahead formation could probably only with difficulty use any guns at all.

Nevertheless, although suffering the complete loss of four ships in the desperate encounter which followed and being subjected to a series of torpedo attacks Saturday night, Rojestyensky was able to steam 200 miles during the night.

When Sunday morning came the Russian fleet was divided into two divisions. The faster and stronger division under Rojestyensky was met by Kamimura and Uriu, while the slower division under Nebogoff renewed the fight with Togo. With some of the scattered Russian units, it was a case of save himself who can.

In the running fight the Japanese enjoyed the advantage of superior speed, enabling them to concentrate their fire and bring every crippled Russian ship to bay. Admiral Nebogoff's battered remnant surrendered off Liancourt Rocks, while Rojestyensky, with the best remaining battleships, fought on for the honor of the Russian navy.

The Admiralty learned with a sense of relief that the flagship Kniaz Suvoroff sank under the foot of the Russian Commander-in-Chief. The surrender of Nebogoff's two battleships, even though the circumstances are not yet known, is regarded as a disaster.

A man at Lisbon, O., sued for a divorce because his wife said he looked like a monkey. As he lost the case, the jury must have decided that his wife knew what she was talking about.

CROSS OF HONOR

TO BE CONFERRED

On Ex-Confederate Veterans at Lakeside Park, Earlinton, Saturday, June 3rd.

The United Daughters of Confederacy of A. E. Reese Chapter of Earlinton and Madisonville will give a picnic at Lakeside Park Earlinton, Saturday, June 3rd, to the F. B. Harris camp of Sons of Veterans. On this occasion a beautiful silk flag made by the Misses Whalen of this city, will be presented to the Sons by Maj. Harris, and crosses of honor will be presented to several of the old Veterans by the "Daughters."

Short talks appropriate to the occasion will be made. All veterans and their families are cordially invited to attend and as many as can are requested to bring well filled baskets. The following day, Sunday, will be observed as Decoration day at Odd Fellows' cemetery, Madisonville.

Your Town's Trade.

An exchange knew what it was talking about when it published the following: "The trade territory of a town is not at all dependent upon the distance to the neighboring trading points. The territory depends upon the enterprise of the merchants and resident of the town. If a town does not reach out for the trade, using every good method, it only comes as fast as it has to and will only grow as it is forced to. But in the surrounding country by advertising, trade will come from an increased radius and the town will forge to the front. It is the men living in the town and not altogether the men living within a certain number of miles that make the town."

Will Never be Missed.

A few citizens never lose an opportunity to give our town and the business men and people in it a "dig" of some kind. Did you ever notice that these people are a class that would not be much missed in any community? A class who never did anything for the town in which they live nor any one in it except themselves? They never put their shoulders to the wheel and help to raise it out of the mire into which it might have sunk. They never do anything but howl and find fault with what others are doing. You will find them in every town.—Breathitt News.

No Sponsors in Confederate Parade.

Gen. Stephen D. Lee, commanding the United Confederate Veterans, has issued an order stating that sponsors and maids of honor will not go in the parade at the coming reunion of veterans at Louisville. Reasons given are that parade must be made short as possible for the comfort of the old soldiers, and that the expense of providing the two thousand sponsors and maids who will attend with escorts and carriages would be too great. This order will settle the confusion that existed as to these points.

Madisonville School Board Elect Teachers for Ensuing Year.

At a meeting of the Board of Education of Madisonville Friday night the teachers of the public school were elected for the ensuing year: Prof. G. W. Chapman as Supt. and all of last year's teachers were re-elected, with the exception of Miss Pearl Eblen, who resigned as teacher of seventh grade. Mrs. Emma Arnett was elected to fill her place.

Madisonville is justly proud of her Public School, which fills a long felt need.

LIFE TERM

Gov. Beckham Commutes Warner's Sentence.—Will be Confined in Asylum Pending Returned Sanity.

ATTORNEY KOHN THREATENED.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—Gov. Beckham this morning commuted the death sentence of George B. Warner, the slayer of Pulaski Leeds, to life imprisonment in the State penitentiary, and at the same time granted a respite and directed that the prisoner be transferred from the Jefferson county jail to a ward at the Central Asylum for the Insane at Lakeland.

This action was taken by the Executive upon the filing in the department of the Secretary of State of the official report of Sheriff E. T. Schmitt, of Jefferson county, showing that a jury had inquired into the sanity of Warner and found him to be insane. Sheriff Schmitt was notified by telephone of the action of the Governor, and will immediately carry his orders into execution.

The Governor's action means that Warner is no longer subject to execution. Sheriff Schmitt announces that he will send Warner to the asylum today or Wednesday. He has not received official notice from Frankfort.

Warner will remain at the asylum until the physicians there think he is sane. He will then be subjected to an inquest before a jury and if declared of sound mind will be sent to the penitentiary.

Anonymous Letter for Mr. Kohn. Attorney Aaron Kohn, who prosecuted Warner, received a letter this morning signed "Committee," demanding that he secure a commutation of Warner's sentence. The letter stated that he had it in his power and unless he complied his life or that of his son would be forfeited. The letter was written on ordinary paper with a typewriter. The spelling was perfect, as was also the grammatical construction of the letter, giving evidence that the writer was a person of intelligence. For this reason, Mr. Kohn decided to place the matter before the United States authorities. The letter was evidently written before the result of the investigation into Warner's sanity became known.

A Narrow Escape.

Saturday evening about 8 o'clock as Mrs. Ed. Brooks and her guest, Mrs. Tarleton, were returning from a drive their horse became frightened as they drove through the alley back of their home and shied running the wheels into a gully and upsetting the buggy and throwing the occupants to the ground, one wheel passing over Mrs. Tarleton's ankle and inflicting a cut and other bruises on her body. She also received a severe nervous shock, from which she was confined to her bed two days. Mrs. Brooks escaped with a sprained wrist.

After the accident the horse trotted to Main street turning at the corner and on up the driveway into Paul Moore's grounds where he was followed by Henry Cowan, who soon quieted and drove him to the stable. The buggy was not damaged.

Franklinphone, the 19-year-old boy who shot Lee Bush five times to see if his gun would kill a "nigger," was found guilty at Carmi, Ill., and given a penitentiary sentence.

Carries His Head in His Hand a Mile.

Benj. Quinette, a painter, fell from a building in Chicago and broke his neck. He then walked a mile to his home, although he was compelled to hold his head in his hands for the entire distance.

When he reached his home, his wife sent for the police ambulance and Quinette was taken to the County Hospital, where the physicians declared that his neck had been fractured at the fifth vertebrae. The man's injuries are expected to prove fatal.

Tobacco Record at Hopkinsville.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 26.—Seven hundred and twenty-seven hogheads of tobacco were received this week, being the largest receipts of the year. Private sales amounted to 196 hogheads. Receipts for year, 4,132; sales for year, 896.

Emotions That Poison the Blood.

Anger, fear, anxiety, are among the emotions or sentiments which literally poison our blood. It has often been said that evil thoughts are poisonous, the meaning being that they corrupt other people, but the real fact is, that they poison our own bodies.

By losing control of ourselves and indulging in anger, by yielding to anxiety, fear and unwholesome thoughts, we cause an irritation or disturbance which, according to the latest sayings of scientists, has the effect of producing a poison in the blood that may have serious consequences.

Naturalists declare that the venom of snakes is generated by anger and fear; that it is rapidly collected in a special receptacle and thence discharged at the object of its anger or fear, and it is further explained that the same process takes place in the human body, but that we have no special organ to receive it, and it therefore disperses in the blood, acting against ourselves instead of our protection. Be that as it may, it is generally conceded that we are literally poisoned by the emotions mentioned and by any sentiment or passion which upsets the smooth working of our minds.—Home Notes.

Every inhabitant of the United States is carried on some journey nine times every year; that is, the number of passengers carried every year is nine times the population of the country.

It does not take up any more time to be polite than disagreeable.

REPUBLICAN PARTY LAW

New Set of Rules Issued to Govern Party in Kentucky.

CANDIDATES MUST NOT BE MEMBERS OF COMMITTEES.

The Republican State Central Committee met at Louisville Saturday and promulgated new rules for government of the party in Kentucky. One rule takes effect at once and there is a general revision of the entire book of rules, all of which takes effect July 1.

The emergency rule provides that a member of any committee shall resign his office immediately should he become a candidate, and reads as follows:

When the Chairman, Secretary, Treasurer, or any other officer, or any member, of a County Executive Committee shall become a candidate for the nomination of any county, municipal or district office to be filled at any regular or special election, he shall immediately resign his office as member in such committee, and the vacancy caused thereby shall be filled as provided for by the party rules; and on his failure to so resign the said committee (be not being allowed to vote thereon) shall thereupon declare his office as membership vacant and shall fill the vacancy agreeably to the party rules.

A change in allowing proxies to vote was made to conform to court decisions. Heretofore proxies have had wide latitude, but the courts have decided that proxies cannot sit as judges in any contest and their powers are otherwise abridged.

General Barco Meyendorff is one of the picturesque characters of the Russian army in Manchuria. He was in the thick of the fighting at the last.

GENERAL MEYENDORFF.

That was one version of the story. Another was that he fought for some days after falling from his horse and that General Kuropatkin, deeming it for the welfare of the troops that he be sent to the rear, convinced the gallant officer that he had broken his collar-bone in his descent from his steed.

LYNCH FOR THE SENATE

District Convention at Madisonville Makes Unanimous Selection.

ALL DELEGATES WERE FOR LYNCH.

Wm. Lynch, of Dawson Springs, was nominated for State Senator by acclamation Saturday by the Republicans of the Sixth Senatorial District in Convention at Madisonville. No other name was mentioned in the convention and it is understood that every delegate was for Lynch. E. B. Long, of Hopkinsville, the chairman of the Senatorial district, called the convention to order and stated that the convention would nominate a man who would be the next senator from Hopkins and Christian counties.

C. J. Waddill was elected temporary chairman and J. T. McDonald temporary secretary both without opposition.

Dr. T. W. Gardiner, Will P. Scott and L. R. Davis were named as committee on resolutions. While the committee was at work Hon. Clifton J. Pratt responded to a call for a speech which he made in his characteristic and pleasing way, rallying his party and speaking highly of the candidate whose name would be presented for the nomination.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows: Your committee on resolutions begs leave to submit the following report:

"We recognize with pride the broad statesmanship and eminent ability of our great President Theodore Roosevelt and rejoice in the abounding prosperity and commanding influence of our nation under his wise patriotic administration.

"We renew our loyalty to the Republican party and pledge our hearty support to its standard bearers.

"We commend the healthy, harmonious sentiment of the Republicans in State and nation which is an earnest of a bright future.

We approve the call for this convention. It is important that this Senatorial district be properly represented by an able and worthy Republican, and the nominee of this convention should command the hearty, united support of our party and of all citizens who love good government. We congratulate the people of this district upon the existing conditions which point so clearly to triumphant Republican victory.

"The nominee of this convention shall be the candidate of the Republican party for Senator of the Sixth Senatorial district of Kentucky composed of the counties of Christian and Hopkins, and his name shall appear on the official ballots for the regular election in November, 1905, in the regular Republican column under the regular party device of the Republican party, to wit: the Log Cabin.

Respectfully submitted,
L. R. DAVIS,
Will P. Scott,
Thos. W. Gardiner.

After adoption of the resolutions William P. Scott made a speech in which he nominated William Lynch for the senate. No other name was put before the convention and Mr. Lynch was enthusiastically nominated by acclamation, after which the convention adjourned.

Spain's Boy King and His Fiancee

THE young king of Spain, Alfonso XIII, has been a source of anxiety to his mother, the former queen regent, and the ministers of state because of his fondness for boyish perquisites and for feasts of skill and daring in which he oftentimes risks breaking his precious neck. Those charged with the responsibility for his conduct have been anxious to get him married, perhaps thinking that with the responsibility of a wife the boy monarch would settle down and become sober and dignified, as befits the occupant of a throne, instead of keeping the royal household in continual concern for the safety of the ruler. Many fair princesses have been inspected by the royal matchmakers, and at last a union has been arranged, it is announced, between King Alfonso and the beautiful Princess Victoria Patricia, younger daughter of Prince Arthur, duke of Connaught. As the future queen of Spain is a niece of King Edward of England, the alliance would form a bond between the royal houses of Spain and Great Britain, and this is regarded with favor.

The pair are very near the same age, as the king will be nineteen on May 17, and his promised queen has just passed her nineteenth birthday. She was born March 17, 1888, and St. Patrick's day was a most appropriate time for her birth in view of her father's Irish title and the fondness for Ireland which she has shown during her girlhood. Tall, handsome and full of vigor, devoted to golf and hockey and other open air sports, "Patsy," as the princess is called by her family, is a general favorite, she is impatient of the constraints of royal etiquette, and unless they will make a rather gay pair King Alfonso assumed the reins of government in Spain in 1902, when his mother gave up the regency. Since that time Queen Christina has occasionally attempted to influence her son's conduct and has been rebuffed that he, not she, is now the ruler. About three years ago the king took up automobile racing and has developed such a fondness for "speeding" that his own life and the lives of others are often placed in jeopardy. The strange spectacle was witnessed recently of a complaint being lodged against the monarch for violation of the speed ordinances of Madrid, failure to carry a number or license plate and having caused a fatal accident. The complaint was presented to the municipal council by the mayor of the arrondissement of Madrid, in which the prince of the house stands. It is supposed he will be let off without fine or imprisonment, but until the monarch tires of automobile racing the streets of Madrid are scarcely safe for pedestrians and carriages, for there is no telling when his unsteady motor car may appear around a corner speeding at a forty mile clip.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Earlington's public school closes this week. The final examinations are finished and each pupil and interested parent is anxiously awaiting the announcement of results. During the year continuous, conscientious work has been done by the entire corps of teachers, and the able principal and all his earnest assistants have succeeded in imparting to a very large proportion of the pupils of all grades a genuine interest in their work. An excellent spirit of emulation exists among the pupils. They have very generally been deeply concerned as to the outcome of the bi-monthly examinations throughout the school term and in the publication of the honor roll in these columns. The interest shown by the children is very encouraging to all who are interested in their education and advancement and is a certain guaranty of good work done by the teachers.

The principal, Mr. Andrew P. Dustin, has given especial attention to a careful grading of all the pupils during the school year just closing and all are now prepared to step into their proper places at the beginning of the next fall term. Discipline has been well looked after and any rebellious ones impressed with the necessity of obedience and honest work.

The patrons of the Public School may congratulate themselves upon the work done.

SHELL GAME.

Circus Day at Madisonville Saw Preacher Come to Grief.

WANTED TO BRIBE THE OFFICERS.

A set of thieves, was the term used by some of the officers and citizens of Madisonville regarding Van-Amberg's stupendous aggregation of trained mountebanks who exhibited in that city Saturday.

All kinds of gambling games were run openly until Judge Wilson got on to the fact and had his men make an arrest of two. The owner of the show was not present as usual but his manager was pulled. When Judge Wilson made his appearance on the scene the manager desired to furnish him all the free tickets needed for himself and friends, these the judge declined. The gentlemanly manager then extended his hand to bid the judge farewell and left a five dollar bill with him. Judge Wilson was naturally indignant and made him take the money at the same time administering a much needed lecture.

During the day Rev. J. T. Watson and William Cox went up against the fascinating shell game and Watson lost $92.00, Cox lost $45.00. These gentlemen had warrants sworn out and an attachment was issued against the show, the money was returned however in a short time. Several other meek lost sums ranging from $5.00 to $25.00. It is estimated that this show took at least $5000.00 out of this neighborhood that could have been put to a good use at home.

CASTLEBERRY ITEMS.

We, the old veterans, desire to thank you for giving us space in your most excellent paper in last week's issue and publishing our programme for Memorial Services last Sunday, all of which were beautifully carried out. We also desire to thank, through your paper, the speakers, who were present, for their patriotic and eloquent addresses and Prof. Lamb and his beautiful daughters, of Cranor's School House, for their fine singing at that place and Castleberry, also the Crofton choir led by Miss Cora Brown, for their fine singing at the Campbell graveyard. We decorated the graves, at these three places, of 1 Federal, 1 Confederate and 1 Revolutionary soldier.

We have an epidemic of flux in the Alexander neighborhood one mile east of Pod, which is proving to be fatal. There have been two deaths among children and two or three others critically ill at this writing and the disease is very hard to control.

Popular rumor says the Driver & Boyd coal mines 4 miles northwest of Crofton have changed ownership, becoming the property by purchase of the Terry Coal & Coak Company, of Hopkinsville. The same company has leased the M. L. Porter mines near the same place and are going to work at once to stock their yards with coal for the local demand and for the South Christian wagon trade for the summer and fall hauling, which is estimated to be one hundred thousand bushels or more.

Farm work progressing nicely since the wet weather has ceased and everything growing nicely. However, there is a scarcity of to-bacco plants and some complaint of grasshoppers eating the plants after setting.

Old Mr. Clay Alexander, who was reported critically ill last week of dropsical trouble, passed to a better life last Wednesday and was laid to rest in the Hawkins graveyard the next day.

Uncle Jesse Bowling, whose illness has been mentioned in several issues of THE BEE, is gradually growing weaker and his friends have lost all hope of hope of him ever being any better.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF $4.50

Miss Nellie Vander Wiele, of Lakeville, N. Y., writing under date of April 18, 1934, says: "I do wish you would publish this letter in the newspapers, so that others suffering as I have may see it and be helped. I suffered for many months with an awful skin disease, sores covering my ears, neck, and cheeks. Scales would form and they would swell and itch day and night. Then they would break open and blood and matter run out. I had tried many different remedies, but none of them did me any good. I was growing worse when I tried the Cuticura Remedies. The first application helped me, and when I had used two cakes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, I was completely cured."

That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such standards proven beyond all doubt by the testimony of the civilized world.

Tales Told By the Thespians

PAULA EDWARDS, the bright particular star of "Winnona White," tells a story illustrating the acumen and enterprise of the genus widow.

"I was sitting on the veranda of a summer hotel," says Miss Edwards, "when I observed a little boy, whose mother was close by, chatting with a young man. 'What's your name?' the child asked. The young man told him."

"No, I am not," was the reply. "The little fellow pattered a moment, and then, turning to his mother, inquired, 'Mamma, what else did you tell me to ask him?'"

According to the ever voracious press agent, Miss Edwards recently received the following letter, which was evidently the work of some very polite lunatic:

Dear Miss Edwards—Knowing you to be interested in anything, and in the theatrical entertainment, I should like to make an appointment to show you a collection of trained germs. They have the well known flex circuit wheel in death. The star of the company is a typhoid fever-bacillus named Mike, who can stand on all seven of his hands and whistle "Home, Sweet Home," through his teeth. I have also two young maricobes who do a sister act and a family of diptheria bacilli, the youngest of which can tick his limbs under his neck and sit on both ears at once. The performance can be given on a stage two inches square. Kindly let me know when and where you will see me.

John Philip Sousa, who is now touring England, had an alarming experience at a provincial hotel during the early part of his tour. Weary from business, Sousa retired at an early hour and left, muffled in the blankets and fruit which had been placed on a table in his bedroom. In the dead of night he was awakened by what seemed to be the sound of a plate being pushed among the glass and cutlery on his small supper table. Seeing nothing in the dim night, the musician returned to his slumbers.

In the morning Sousa found that the room was soiled with black footmarks. They were on the floor, the table, the toilet stand and the chairs—most particularly the chair upon which Sousa had put his underwear. "And it's all over the plate!" said the man who brought the hot water. Moreover, the sandwiches had entirely disappeared, and so had the fruit.

Sousa helped the man in his search about the room for what they expected would turn out to be a hidden tramp, and it was not very long before the musician discovered that the footmarks seemed to have come from and disappeared to the great old fashioned chimney corner.

"He's up that chimney, but he won't be when we have burned paper at this end of it," observed Sousa, and the smoke from the flaring torch soon had the desired effect. A large baboon, covered from head to foot with soot, descended into the room and stood quite quietly by the window while Sousa and the man retreated into an adjoining apartment, locking the door behind them. The baboon, it turned out, had escaped from a traveling circus the night before and was last seen making his way in the direction of a dense bit of ground at the side of the hotel.

Sousa says that he is going to let a long time go by before he reads again the tale of his countryman, Edgar Allan Poe, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue."

A story is told of the late William E. Gladstone and the eminent English actor John Hare, who has met with such flattering receptions when visiting the United States. Mr. Hare says that the great British statesman paid him the finest compliment he ever received. He has won fame by his clever impersonations of old men and takes such a part in "A Pair of Spectacles," which Mr. Gladstone was very fond of seeing. Sometimes, says the Saturday Evening Post, the premier of England would go behind the scenes to chat with John Hare. The actor came in smooth shaven, looking about the age of 35. He was presented to Mr. Gladstone, and the prime minister shook his hand most cordially and remarked:

"My dear sir, I am very, very glad to meet you. I know your father very, very well. Splendid actor! Fine old man!"

One day the Earl of Rosebery had Mr. Gladstone to dinner, and he also invited his friend, John Hare. The actor came in smooth shaven, looking about the age of 35. He was presented to Mr. Gladstone, and the prime minister shook his hand most cordially and remarked:

"My dear sir, I am very, very glad to meet you. I know your father very, very well. Splendid actor! Fine old man!"

It took the whole evening for the Earl and Mr. Hare to convince him that this remark was really the father's.

the sort of "Vampires" in "The Virginian" is the owner of a fine blonde (recently married) face. Last season in Grand Rapids, Mr. Campion was sitting in the lobby of the hotel where he was staying, and a stranger came up to him in conversation. "What was a sad thing that happened in regard to the hotel this afternoon?" said the stranger. "A lady who was usually observed to death in a fight by a terrible brute."

"No bad," said Campion.

"It's a shame for people to own force dogs like that and allow them to run at large," continued the stranger.

"Ought to be a law against it," declared the actor.

Just then the property man of the company Campion was with rushed into the hotel wild with excitement.

"The actor," Tige has chewed up another pig, and the owner has had Mr. Musson arrested."

Mr. Musson was a fellow member of Campion's company and had taken Tige out for an airing.

Campion looked at the stranger, who was rapidly losing his attitude of friendly interest, then, grasping the property man by the shoulder, hurried him from the hotel. "Where is Musson?" demanded Campion.

"He's around the property man. 'Where is Tige?'"

"At the theater, I hugged him there by the ear."

"Let's go to the fall," said Campion in a trembling voice.

Jail proved to be police headquarters, where the case was being tried before a police magistrate. Campion and the property man arrived just in time to hear Musson plead guilty and see the magistrate assess him for a fine of $5.

Musson paid the fine, and the party left the place.

"What did you plead guilty for?" Campion asked Musson as they walked back toward the hotel.

"Nothing else to do. You were guilty all right, and as your understudy I played the part as near like you as I could," said Musson. "Five dollars, please."

"Here's the $5," said Campion. "And I'll tell you a bit of news—Tige goes home tonight."

Chauncey Olcott, who is nearing the close of an unusually successful tour of the country in "Tessie," is quoted as saying: "When I was in Cork last I got acquainted with one of those really good story tellers who have helped make Ireland famous. Some incident came up in the local courts which brought out the following:

Ah, it isn't always the 'famine' that counts in a man. If the brains are in him they'll work without training, though maybe a little 'touchin' up' doesn't hurt."

"Now, there was no old Irish Tom Sullivan, who meddles in money on horse-drawn carriages. In Cork, over town, an' was magistrate an' all, though he couldn't tell his own CHAUNCEY OLCOTT, name if he saw it in writin'."

Well, I mind the day Sergeant Darcy brought Pete Garvey up before Tom for bein' drunk and disorderly in the public streets, as they say. Now, Darcy was a bit of a bog Latin scholar, and, thinkin' to frustrate Tom, he put the case this way, 'Pete Garvey in bog signatur, your worshipship.'

"Tom looked bothered for a minute and scratched his poll. Then, with one of them sudden jerks of his, he pointed to Garvey and thundered out without a bit of hesitation:

"'In the signatur bolisimus peelerin' and I declare he had to explain to thin reporter fellows who write books every day that Garvey was fined a bob, or a shillin' if you like, for bein' drunk and disorderly. Oh, it's the brains, not the 'famine', that counts."

"I live always 'shut in,' said Sarah Bernhardt, the famous actress, when she was to give a brief account of an ordinary day in her life. "I drive in a closed carriage to the theater. Enthusiasm keeps me alive and well. The fatigue of the theater delights instead of weakening me. I go to bed at 3 in the morning and get up at 9 o'clock. I am for twelve hours in the theater without the fresh air or the daylight. At Belle Isle in the summer I am continually in the open air, for even when the windows are wide open."

I am in the house the windows are wide open. No actress has ever had more jokes made at her expense than the divine Sarah had in her younger days, when she was painfully thin and slender. Dumas, the younger, was once shown a picture of the great actress painted by M. Clarin. In the picture a dog was lying at Miss Bernhardt's feet. "Ah," said M. Dumas, "a picture of a dog and a bone." On another occasion a Parisian paper told a story of how Miss Bernhardt was attacked by robbers, but escaped by hiding herself behind her parasol. Once the actress was rehearsing a piece in a Paris theater when she was suddenly called off the stage to see a friend. The manager, turning round quickly and not seeing Miss Bernhardt, looked thoughtfully at the door of the stage for a few seconds and then said sadly, "Ah, poor mademoiselle! She must have slipped through the boards!"

WHITELAW REID'S CAREER.

Successor of Joseph Chamberlain as Editor and Diplomat.

Whitelaw Reid, the successor of Joseph H. Chamberlain as ambassador to England, has held many posts of honor, but perhaps none that has given him so much influence as his position as editor and chief officer of the New York Tribune. He recently resigned his editorial and managerial duties in order to devote his whole time to his work as a diplomat. Mr. Reid succeeded Horace Greeley as editor of the Tribune in 1872. He had for four years previous been a member of the editorial staff. In the thirty-four years that he was editor of the Tribune he was honored with a nomination for vice president, with appointment as minister to France, as special ambassador at Queen Victoria's jubilee and King Edward's coronation and as a member of the peace commission which negotiated the treaty of Paris between Spain and the United States in 1898. Mr. Reid was born at Xenia, O., in 1837, educated at Miami university and gained his first reputation as a war correspondent during the civil war. He married in 1881 a daughter of the anti-slavery, D. O. Mills. His town and country homes are notable.

ble for the richness and elegance of their furnishings, but in his youth Mr. Reid was not accustomed to luxury. His parents were plain people, who settled in Ohio in 1820, and his father cleared the forest land and with his own hands erected the family home. In describing how Mr. Reid got through college his mother once said:

"When Whitelaw went to college he had a hard time to get along. One day I packed up a crock of butter, a loaf of bread, a sack of meal and later a belted ham. I wrote to him to get some butter and mix it with the meal and make some cakes. He wrote me back it was the best meal he had eaten for a long time. He has greatly honored me, and I often say, as David did to Saul, 'What have I done that I should be thus honored?'"

THE RUSSIAN PEASANTS.

They Are Poor and Ignorant, but Industrious and Cheerful.

The peasant class in Russia constitutes a large proportion of the whole population of the empire, and the peasants in general are very poor and steeped in ignorance. The emancipation of 1861-65 gave freedom to 22,000,000 peasants or serfs, who prior to 1861 were governed exclusively by their owners and enjoyed exceedingly limited rights. With the emancipation of the serfs was a great reform it has not been succeeded by other measures needed to enable the peasantry to take advantage of the new conditions.

In consequence of the existence of serfdom very few efforts were made to educate the masses in Russia prior to the reign of Alexander II, the czar who emancipated the serfs. Four-fifths of the population of Russia subsist by husbandry. The methods of farming are generally primitive, and the most of the peasantry live in communes and tend to till lands that are not their individual possessions, but are owned by the community, though the product belongs to the individual cultivator.

Individual ownership of land is increasing, however, among the peasants. Though they have many hardships to contend with they are a cheerful people and have few enemies. The women are very busy but are not so busy as the men. The holiday times are the best times for them.

MINING NOTES.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 27.—The Terry Coal & Coke Company, of this city, has closed a deal for the Porter and Wiggins coal mines in the Northern section of this county, and will take control at once. This gives the Terry company a controlling interest in all the coal mines of Christian county with the exception of the Empire mines. Arrangements are being made for the company to operate all these mines actively from now on. The recent survey of the Frisco Railroad Company passes directly through this property, and a town and railroad depot will be located there if this company builds a road to connect Hopkinsville with its system across the Ohio river as now seems to be its intention.

Paducah, Ky., May 27.—The towboat Sprague passed here today with the largest tow of coal ever carried down the river. The tow was composed of seventy-one barges, containing 1,780,000 bushels of coal, which on reaching the market at New Orleans will realize over $250,000.

Mr. Jno. Harland of Ilsey, was here Monday visiting relatives.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad company is preparing to develop mineral lands in various counties in Kentucky through its new branch which extends from Ashland, Ky., to the Big Sandy valley in the eastern section of the state. The coal fields in this section are said to be inexhaustible.

The Great Central railroad owns 325,000 acres of coal lands in northeastern Kentucky and is preparing to begin the development of their holdings. The company is trying to make arrangements with the Chesapeake & Ohio R. R. which traverses that section to bring the coal down to the Big Sandy where it is the intention of the company to build a bridge and then haul the output to the lakes. If satisfactory arrangements are not made it is said that the Great Central R. R. will build an independent line.

The Big Sandy Land & Development Company of Floyd county, filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State at Frankfort, Ky., on May 29th with $15,000 capital stock. The company will develop mineral lands which they own in that section.

The armature of the motor in use at the No. 11 mine was burnt out Tuesday causing several hours delay until repairs were made.

Weighman Westley Edwards of Mortons Gap, was in the city Tuesday evening on business.

Mr. Dick Salmon of the Crabtree Coal Company at Ilsey, was in the city Tuesday on business.

Ed. Cloren was in Madisonville attending court.

Barnsley mine made a good record last Friday. The miners there put out 912.21 tons that day, loading 29 tons. Some of the Barnsley men are even beginning to talk of having a champion ship mine in the future.

"I have been troubled for some time with indigestion and sour stomach," says Mrs. Sarah W. ### Patriotic Service to be Held.

Rev. Brooks, the successful evangelist who is holding a series of meetings in Madisonville, announces through The Bee that there will be held in Morton's Theatre Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock a patriotic service for men only. This service will be held for the benefit of good citizenship and all the lodges of Earlinton are requested to attend in a body. They are also requested to notify Rev. Brooks how many will attend from each lodge, that he may reserve seats for them.

Has Finger Cut Off.

Little Waverly Owen, while playing with one of the machines at Teyman's tin shop Monday, had the misfortune to cut off the end of his finger on the left hand. He was immediately taken to the hospital, where the physician took his finger off at the first joint. The little fellow is getting along nicely and it is thought the wound will heal in a few days.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.25, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachesville, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not. No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails."

INTERESTING COAL FACTS.

First Bituminous Coal Was Mined in Richmond Basin, Virginia.

CHART GIVING FULL HISTORIC DATE.

A chart that has historical as well as statistical value has just been published by the United States Geological Survey. It shows the production of coal in the United States from 1814, the date of the earliest record, to the close of 1904. The figures are arranged by States and by years in the order in which the States began to produce coal. The production of the entire country during that period of 91 years is shown to have amounted to the enormous total of 5,577,210,577 short tons. This includes the production for 1904 which is estimated as 351,196,395 short tons, the figures for 1904 being preliminary and subject to final revision later in the year.

Pennsylvania has not only the largest production of any of the coal-producing States, but it was the first State of which there is any accurate record of production. The first coal shipped in the United States was from the Richmond basin in Virginia. In 1814, when an output of 22 tons is recorded to Pennsylvania's credit, it was easier to hew down a forest tree than to sink a shaft, and the coal mining industry was not needed to support a thousand manufacturing industries. The mining of coal has developed our civilization, has made possible our material advancement. It has also created indirectly our chief economic problems, for no log-wood fire ever developed a trust.

The earliest production of bituminous coal was made in the Richmond basin of Virginia in the latter part of the eighteenth century. The first recorded output was in 1822, when 54,000 short tons were produced. The production of this region increased steadily until 1832, when it began to decline. By the middle of the last century it had almost disappeared. In 1855 began the development of the Piedmont region, which at the that time belonged to Virginia.

The early records of Pennsylvania bituminous production are sadly wanting. The earliest date of which we have any record is the census for 1840, although it is practically certain that some bituminous coal was produced in Pennsylvania before that year.

Next to the records of anthracite mining in Pennsylvania are those of bituminous mining in the Richmond basin, in Virginia, the earliest statistics of coal mining which we have are for Illinois. The first record found for this State is that coal was mined in Jackson County in 1810.

Although some coal was undoubtedly produced in Ohio prior to 1838, that is the first year in which any production was recorded. The output for that year was 119,662 tons.

Among the States west of the Mississippi River the earliest production reported is in Missouri and Iowa. By the census of 1840 Missouri is credited with an output of 977 short tons and Iowa with 300 short tons. It is probable that very little coal was mined in either of these States before that time, and it may be considered that the industry began at that date.

The first coal discovered on the Pacific coast was found in the State of Washington in 1852. The first mine was opened in Whatcom County in 1854.

Although California has never taken high rank as a coal producing State, it comes next in order in the history of early production, an output of 629 tons being produced in 1861. The maximum output of the State—215,235 short tons—was attained in 1874.

The chart which sets forth in tabulated form many of these interesting facts regarding the production of coal was compiled under the supervision of Dr. David T. Day, chief of the division of mining and mineral resources, by Mr. Edward W. Parker, statistician. It may be obtained, free of charge, on application to the Director of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Why Poultry is Valuable.

Prof. Gilbert, of Ottawa, Canada, gives the following reasons why poultry is valuable to the farmer:

"Because he ought, by their means, to convert a great deal of the waste of his farm into money in the shape of eggs and chickens for market."

"Because, with intelligent management, they ought to be all year revenue producers, with the exception of perhaps two months during the molting season."

"Because poultry will yield him a quicker return for the capital invested than any other department of agriculture."

"Because the manure from the poultry house will make valuable compost for use in either vegetable garden or orchard. The birds themselves, if allowed to run in plum or apple orchard, will destroy all injurious insect life.

"Because, while cereals and fruits can only be successfully grown in certain sections, poultry can be raised in all parts of the country."

"Because poultry raising is an employment in which the farmer's wife and daughters can engage, and leave him free to attend to other departments."

"Because it will bring him the best results in the shape of new laid eggs during the winter season, when the farmer has time on his hands."

"Because to start poultry raising on the farm requires little or no capital. By good management poultry can be made with little cost a valuable adjunct to the farm."

Hints.

The "castings" on the trunks of the apple trees show where the borers have been at work.

Do not plant corn in wet ground, as you are very likely to have the work to do over again.

Good ears of corn, according to the expert judge of corn, are few. Uniformity has not been as yet bred into any of our varieties sufficiently to give a large percentage of uniform ears in a crop.

It is impossible to exhaust the fertility of the world, but we may by careful methods change it around so that it will take till our grandchildren's day to get some of it back into a position where it may be used.

The Water Pan.

Go out to the hen house and look at the pan you have been giving the fowls their water in, and see how full of straw and other litter it is. Then take an old cheese box, split half way around the side, put the dish of water on top of that, and note the difference there will be in cleanliness. The water pan ought never to be placed so that the hens can throw stuff over the edge into it.

Need Green Food.

The breeding birds must have green food of some kind, and it is easily supplied in the form of clover, alfalfa, cabbage, turnips, potatoes, etc. These not only have a food value, says Commercial Poultry, but are very beneficial as promoters of digestion and health and their use insures greater fertility of the eggs.

When buying pigs look at the mother. If she is all legs, and thin as a racer, go somewhere else for your pigs. Legs, snout and backbone do not make full pork barrels.

Odds and Ends.

Nothing illustrates the point of a subject so clearly and quickly as good object lessons. The use of object lessons is valued and appreciated by all educators.

The cheapest item that can be used in the production of cotton is commercial fertilizers used liberally. With a liberal application of fertilizers the farmers can grow a bale of cotton where he has heretofore grown a half a bale, and do it with the same cost of labor.

There is not a happier life than his who lives upon the farm. There is not a more profitable occupation than farming, for the world to-day depends on the farm. The successful farmer of the future must cultivate fewer acres and make those fewer acres produce more per acre than they have in the past.

Some Things About Tobacco.

The American tobacco grower receives an average of about ten cents a pound for stripped tobacco, from which he must get his pay for the plant, his labor, his time and his investment in a farm. The United States Government gets six cents for every pound manufactured. The English Government gets an average of seventy-five cents for each pound for the luxury, and what is the reason the producer is not well paid for the material? They will be when they understand these matters and provide themselves with means to control the markets.

In sowing small seeds, a very simple and useful seed drill for gardeners consists of a bottle, cork and quill. With a quill bore a hole in cork, the size of quill. Fill bottle three-quarters full of seed, put your seed in and mix thoroughly, place cork in bottle and you are ready to sow.

Disarming Calves.

The easiest and simplest way to remove horns is to use caustic potash on the young calf just as the embryo horns are appearing. One can get the potash sticks at any drug store. The little tender button should be wet and a little potash rubbed on the moistened surface of the horn points until sufficient caustic has been transferred to the moisture. It may be necessary to give more than one application, but the calf will not mind—Professor C. S. Plumb in Rural New Yorker.
